A backdrop of Brown County's picture-perfect natural beauty and historic landmarks..

Less than 1 hour to Indianapolis, 2 hours to Louisville and 3 hours to Cincinnati, Indiana's largest contiguous forestry creates a world of opportunities for the filmmaker's imagination. Valleys, vistas, old farms, log homes and mature woods will inspire today's film industry just as they inspired American Impressionist T.C. Steele to paint Brown County's landscapes at the turn of the century. His 211 acres, home, studio and gardens still offer an abundance of tantalizingly beautiful location possibilities.

Looking for that perfect small town atmosphere for your project? Downtown Nashville offers a myriad of colorful, historic structures and landscaped courtyards. And, don't forget Brown County's quaint, picturesque rural villages such as Story, an intriguing mixture of rustic charm and farm - home of the prestigious annual Indiana Wine Festival.

Over 200 restaurants, shops, galleries, activities, hotels, B&B's and log cabin rentals ready to roll..

Tourism is Brown County's primary economy, all set up and good-to-go: outdoor activities such as mountain biking and kayaking, caterers for the crews, variety of retail, affordable resorts, all sorts of weekend and monthly rentals including luxury properties with privacy for A-list stars!

A supporting cast of hundreds of talented residents drawn to the "Art Colony of the Midwest"..

Brown County's beauty and creative environment continue to attract new residents with all types of skills: painters, sculptors, potters, woodcarvers, furniture makers, weavers, muralists, jewelers, seamstresses, carpenters, architects, designers, engravers, welders...

Brown County's Chamber of Commerce, Convention and Visitors Bureau and Economic Development Commission will be happy to help make local connections—even help through the halls of local government for permits, licenses and street-blocking.
